

nanoTECHNOLOGY in biology & medicine

November 5, 2007
Cannon Research Center Auditorium
Carolinas Medical Center
Charlotte, North Carolina

The NORTH CAROLINA BIOTECHNOLOGY CENTER along with the UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT CHARLOTTE and the CAROLINAS MEDICAL CENTER will be hosting a conference on nanotechnology's potential impact on medicine on Nov. 5, 2007. Invited experts will provide state-of-the-art lectures on topics on nanotechnology as it relates to biology and medicine.

INVITED SPEAKERS:

Steve Barry PhD, Alnis BioSciences
David Carroll PhD, Wake Forest University
Joe DeSimone PhD, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill
Piotr Grodzinski PhD, National Cancer Institute
Don Ingber MD PhD, Harvard University
Vinod Labhateshwar PhD, Cleveland Clinic
Kam Leong PhD, Duke University
Molly Stevens PhD, Imperial College London, UK
Sam Wickline MD PhD, Washington University, St Louis
Otto Zhou PhD, Xintek & the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

CONFERENCE ORGANIZERS

Ken Gonsalves PhD, University of North Carolina at Charlotte
Craig Halberstadt PhD, Carolinas Medical Center
Maria Rapoza PhD, North Carolina Biotechnology Center

WHEN Monday, November 5, 2007 8:30 AM - 8:00 PM

WHERE Cannon Research Center Auditorium
Carolinas Medical Center
1542 Garden Terrace Drive
Charlotte, NC 28203

FEE Fees

View more information about the conference

Register for Event

Carolinan HealthCare System

CBES

UNC CHARLOTTE

CHARLOTTE RESEARCH INSTITUTE
UNC CHARLOTTE

North Carolina
Biotechnology Center

SUMMA, ALLAN & ADDITON, P.A.
PATENT ATTORNEYS